ABOUT ME

I Dig the Good Vibrations...listening to and creating music, going to the beach, attempting to surf, gymnastics, going to the movies, dancing in my living room, cooking in my kitchen, checking out live bands, eating good food, fast, crazy roller coasters, water slides, subway trains, black licorice, scarves, Doc Martens and Chuck Taylors.

I possess a high metabolism of bottled energy and I tend not sit much. That certainly is helpful in the tour industry from a leadership perspective. Be it a place I've been and can pass on what knowledge I have or somewhere new where we can learn together, I'm your candidate when it comes to sustaining group interest through my narratives. I feel that storytelling is the best way to immerse into new experiences. Facts are best learned through interesting stories that people can remember and can picture in their mind... imagining what life must have looked like in a location as its history unfolded.

That's my story and I'm sticking to it.
